Employee Summary OVERALL TENDENCIES

- Have very strong intuitive insights and hunches about what is right and wrong as well as which direction will be fruitful.
- Sensitive to the needs and issues of others and to the protection of the individuality and freedom of others.
- May expect others to be better than they can be and become disappointed when they do not measure up to your expectations.
- Are likely to shift from being open and available to becoming cautious and suspecting of others.
- Have the ability to listen attentively, showing concern and respect; however, you may tend to avoid difficult, stressful, or confusing situations.
- Tend to think outside the box, seeing ideas and ways of doing things which others tend to miss because they think more by habit.
- Tend to be an individualist and an unconventional person, challenging existing ways of thinking and doing things.
- May become reactive and retroactive in your thinking, spending too much time and energy trying to see things from a different perspective.
- May develop a 'chip on the shoulder attitude' when things do not work out as you expect.
- Have keen knowledge of your social/role image, of your ability to perform and of the importance of status and recognition.
- Will likely be confident, comfortable, and satisfied about you are doing.
- Have the ability to see and understand your uniqueness and individuality and to assess personal strengths and limitations.
- Have the ability to see and set personal goals and to understand standards which will guide your development and conduct.
- Tend to be uncertain about which direction is best and, as a result, may delay decisions and actions until you are convinced that the time is right.
